

Federal Direct Student Loan Entrance Counseling

Before continuing with Federal Direct Student Loan Entrance Counseling, please read the following carefully so you will understand your loan.

The U.S. Department of Education requires all Federal Direct Student Loan recipients to complete an entrance interview before receiving their first loan disbursement. Please print the confirmation page to include with your personal files. You will not be able to receive the loan funds until completion of the on-line counseling is verified and you have signed a Master Promissory Note (MPN).

This is not the application for the Federal Direct Student Loan, there is a separate form that must be completed. The form is available on the Crowder College web site.

Students interested in a Federal Direct Student Loan must be enrolled at least half-time. Half-time enrollment at Crowder College is at least 6 credit hours in the fall, spring, and summer semesters.

Crowder College graduates' average loan indebtedness based upon loan amounts borrowed while attending Crowder College is $6314. The monthly payment on this amount would be approximately $64.80. This monthly payment is based on the maximum Federal Direct Student Loan interest rate of 4.29% for 10 years as of February 5, 2016, and is subject to change.

Students who drop all their courses for a given semester must complete the required withdrawal from all courses paperwork and it is recommended that they speak with the financial aid office to discuss their financial aid obligations. This paperwork can be obtained at the Student Services Offices at each Crowder College location.

All loan information is available on the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS). You can access your loan information with your federal PIN at <http://www.nslds.ed.gov/>.

Remember, you will need to complete an Exit Counseling session when you graduate, withdraw, or cease to attend school on at least a half time basis. When that time comes, you may complete your Exit Counseling using this web site.
