Crowder College Athletic Fieldhouse Fundraising to Begin

Neosho, MO – The Crowder College Board of Trustees gave the go ahead for fundraising to begin on an indoor athletic fieldhouse.

John Sisemore, Interim Athletic Director, provided drawings and fundraising plans to construct the $1.4M facility, which will house locker rooms for baseball and soccer, indoor practice area, training room, concessions and more. “The 15,600 square foot building will provide much needed space for the college’s athletic programs. This will not only provide space it will put us on the same playing field as our competitors in recruiting opportunities,” stated Sisemore.

Fundraising will begin immediately with construction to take place once the entire project has been funded. Donations will be accepted by the Crowder College Foundation, a 501(c)3, organized for the benefit of Crowder College.

Crowder College’s Athletic Department offers four sports: Women’s Basketball and Softball; Men’s Baseball and Soccer. The college’s teams have proven themselves both in the classroom and on the field with students and teams being named Academic All-American as well as players moving on to Division I schools and some even drafted by Major League Baseball.

Architectural drawings will be on display in the Bob Sneller Gym lobby during an Alumni reception, Saturday, January 31, at 1pm.
