SAFETY TRAINING COMING TO CROWDER COLLEGE

NEOSHO, MO – Training that is usually held in Colorado is coming to Neosho! The Ammonia Training and Safety Institute is bringing “Safety Training 2013” to Crowder College, Monday, May 20, at 7:00 a.m. in the Wright Conference Center in the Arnold Farber Building on the Neosho campus.

This safety training is geared toward anyone in maintenance, industry, etc. They will learn about hazardous materials, handling of same, safety around them, etc. Anyone from a city to a school to a mall to a hospital to a casino would probably benefit. Kirby Plank from General Mills says anyone in maintenance would benefit from this training. Their group from General Mills attends this safety training every year but they usually have to go to Colorado for training.

Special Guest SAL-Monia, the Jose Mata Story. Hear about how a cooling tower came apart releasing a dense gas cloud that overcame Jose and how his training helped him survive.

Anyone interested in attending should enroll by calling Jayson Arter, Operations Manager, 831-713-7763 or e-mail: jayson.arter@gmail.com or register at: <http://184.172.165.27/~astiad/index.php/safety-days/register-now/event/3-joplin-missouri-safety-day>
