

July 14, 2014

For Immediate Release
Office of Public Information
Crowder College

Crowder PBL Students Place at National Competition

Nashville, TN - Four Crowder College students recently arrived home from the Phi Beta Lambda National Conference in Nashville, TN. Crowder Advisors were proud to have two events place in the top 10 in the nation.

Crowder College students Felicia Pogue, Madison McDonnell, Katelyn Hutchison, and Steven Babcock competed in their respective events against college students from across the country. Madison McDonnell finished in 8th place in Word Processing and Steven Babcock and Katelyn Hutchison paired together to finish 6th in Hospitality Management.

Future Business Leaders of America-Phi Beta Lambda, Inc. is an education association with a quarter million members and advisers in over 6,500 active middle school, high school, and college chapters worldwide. Its mission is to bring business and education together in a positive working relationship through innovative leadership and career development programs.

Students interested in becoming part of this outstanding organization may contact Chris Fenske or Cynthia Quinly for more information as well as going to www.fbla-pbl.org. We will begin preparing for next year's exciting national conference which will be held in Chicago, IL next summer.

###

Attached please find a photo of the group (L-R): Madison McDonnell, Katelyn Hutchison, Felicia Pogue, Steven Babcock & Chris Fenske, Business Faculty/PBL Advisor.

Please contact my office if you have additional questions.