

October 27, 2014

For Immediate Release
Office of Public Information

Crowder Art Students Put Card Clothes on Runway

Neosho, MO – The Crowder College Art Students will have a fashion show for their latest project – clothing made of playing cards. The fashion show will be held Wednesday, Oct. 29, at 1:30pm in the Student Center on the Neosho campus.

Fellow students will serve as models wearing jackets, dresses and other clothing attire completely made from playing cards. One student, Hanna Selman, created a dress made from 54 decks of cards. Indigo Sky has agreed to purchase the dress from her to display in their casino.

Casey Stueber, Art Instructor, assigns this project to students in her Introduction to 3-D Design class.

Crowder College offers an Associate of Arts degree in Art and Design.

###

Please feel free to attend the fashion show. If you have questions you may contact CaseyStueber@Crowder.edu or my office.