Students planning a career in Veterinary Technology should possess at least a basic knowledge of the day-to-day practice of Veterinary medicine. Therefore, students applying for the Crowder College Veterinary Technology Program must shadow a Veterinarian and RVT in clinical practice for a minimum of 40 clock hours prior to the program application deadline. It is preferred that the Veterinarian supervising this shadowing experience write a recommendation or impression of the student as a candidate for the program, as well as attest to the fact the student completed the required hours of observation. If not writing a recommendation letter, please sign below and sate that the student has in fact spent 40 hours observing the practice of Veterinary Medicine in a clinical setting.

Thank you for your assistance

Shawna Estep, RVT
Crowder College Veterinary Technology Program Director

NAME OF STUDENT: _____

Number of hours of observation completed by the student: _____

Signature of supervising Veterinarian: _____

Contact phone number for the Veterinarian: _____

Comments:_____

_____

_____